

Resulting litany

Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia (there are various musical versions, any would be suitable)

Salvation is finding refuge with God and discovering supportive community.
Salvation feels like a safe place to pitch your tent in all seasons of life.

Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia

Salvation is ransom - being set free from captivity by the relentless love of a God who will do whatever it takes.
Salvation feels like when I can't get up, someone comes alongside, lays down and meets me in the filth and muck and loves me up.

Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia

Salvation is freedom from fear, shame, sin, baggage, condemnation and death; and freedom for life, love and hope through Christ.
Salvation smells like the air of love, not the stale air of bondage.

Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia

Salvation is ongoing, loving mystery of the fleshy spirit of God renewing and making new all things.
Salvation feels like the wild wind so come sail away with me.

Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia

Salvation is ongoing healing that Jesus Christ individually, communally, and in creation.
Salvation feels like inner healing after 12 years of bleeding.

Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia